THE SHELDON'S 2022-2023 EDUCATION CONCERTS ARE IN-PERSON AND VIRTUAL

ST. LOUIS - The Sheldon's music education concerts, which introduce thousands of students annually to jazz, folk, classical, world music and more, embark on their 2022-2023 schedule thanks to the Steward Family Foundation and many other generous donors. Tickets for live, in-person programs are $4.50 per student. Scholarships may be available to eligible schools. During the 2021-2022 season, The Sheldon's education programs reached over 70,000 students across the region both in-person and virtually.

The Sheldon is excited to welcome students back into the concert hall for live shows, while continuing to offer easily accessible and flexible virtual learning opportunities. The one-hour performances feature some of St. Louis' top musicians and educators as well as several nationally acclaimed artists. Students are given the opportunity for a Q&A session with artists at the end of each performance. Teacher handbooks, which include additional educational material and follow-up activities, will be provided to guide teachers for each concert. Virtual registrants will receive a link to view the live-streamed performances, which will remain available for two weeks following the initial air date.
