ST. LOUIS, MO – On the advice of his doctors, due to the continuing COVID-19 pandemic, 90-year-old Ramblin' Jack Elliott will not appear with Todd Snider at The Sheldon on November 19 as originally announced. Ramblin' Jack will be replaced by singer/songwriter Chicago Farmer.

The son of a small-town farming community, Cody Diekhoff logged plenty of highway and stage time under the name Chicago Farmer before settling in the city in 2003. Profoundly inspired by fellow Midwesterner John Prine, he's a working-class folk musician to his core.

"I love the energy, music and creativity of Chicago, but at the same time, the roots and hard work of my small town," he shares. Growing up in Delavan, Illinois, with a population less than 2,000, Diekhoff's grandparents were farmers, and their values have always provided the baseline of his songs.

Tickets for Todd Snider with special guest Chicago Farmer are limited. Call MetroTix at 314-534-1111 or visit TheSheldon.org.
