ST. LOUIS — The Sheldon celebrates Music at the Intersection in Grand Center with a festival pre-party honoring legendary St. Louis singer, producer and songwriter Angela Winbush! This very special event will feature St. Louis native, the one and only Coco Soul, along with musical tributes from many of St. Louis' brightest stars, Friday, September 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the perfect acoustics of the Sheldon Concert Hall.

Angela Winbush has left an indelible mark on the national R&B scene as one half of the famed duo Rene & Angela; as producer for major artists such as Janet Jackson, Stephanie Mills, The Isley Brothers, Sheena Easton and Lalah Hathaway; and with her solo hits like "I've Learned to Respect (The Power of Love)," "Angel," "Lay Your Troubles Down" and "Treat U Rite." Join us in celebrating Angela Winbush as we honor her legacy right where it all started for her – in St. Louis!

About Music at the Intersection – and the 2022 St. Louis Legends Award

The second annual Music at the Intersection festival will take place September 10-11. During the weekend, more than 50 national, regional and local acts are scheduled to perform across four stages throughout Grand Center Arts District's outdoor festival footprint – a mix of urban streets and green spaces, stretching across Washington Avenue, just east of Grand Blvd.

On the evening of Saturday, September 10, Music at the Intersection will honor Angela Winbush with its St. Louis Legends Award. The ceremony will take place on the Washington Avenue Main Stage, immediately prior to a performance by Erykah Badu.

The St. Louis Legends Award is an annual honor presented to an impactful, homegrown, St. Louis area artist who has left an undeniable imprint on the American songbook. In 2021, the festival's inaugural award was presented to The Bosman Twins.
