ST. LOUIS, MO - The Sheldon Art Galleries and Ladue News are pleased to announce a special sneak preview and champagne reception to celebrate the opening of the exhibition, Glamour: Costumes and Images from the Collection of Mary Strauss, Monday, September 23 from 6-8 p.m. Attendees will have the first opportunity to view this exciting exhibit, offering a glimpse into the magical world of film and theatre glamour through the decades, through captivating dresses and artifacts that reflect a larger-than-life magical world. Accompanying the costumes are an array of photographs by George Hurrell and other celebrity image-makers that celebrate the glamour of New York and Hollywood, as well as movie posters, ephemera and video clips depicting some of the dresses in their original films.

The exhibit opens to the public on October 4 and runs through December 28, 2013.
