ST. LOUIS — Singer/songwriter Gillian Welch returns to The Sheldon with her musical partner, guitarist Dave Rawlings, Thursday, August 13 at 8 p.m.

Gillian Welch and Dave Rawlings met at Berklee College of Music, where Welch was studying songwriting, while Rawlings studied guitar. Together, they moved to Nashville, TN where most of their work together has been produced. Since then, they have influenced and inspired new generations of country and folk singers, songwriters and players. They have earned the admiration of many of the most lauded and loved voices of Americana music. Their songs have been recorded by the likes of Willie Nelson, Emmylou Harris and Solomon Burke, and their body of work is deeply rooted in the world it has sought to portray in song: the American South.
